

The Cascadia Marine Trail | From the Capital to Canada

The Cascadia Marine Trail is a system of campsites for people arriving in human powered boats like canoes, kayaks, stand-up paddleboards, beachable sailboats and rowboats.

The trail continues a 10,000 year tradition of traveling the Salish Sea, through the Puget Sound, Hood Canal and the San Juan Islands.

This National Recreation Trail offers both day-use access and overnight camping sites.

Washington Water Trails, the parent organization, works to establish access, recreational and educational opportunities for people using human and wind-powered, beachable watercraft on Washington State's marine and inland waterways.

Mission Statement:
Through advocacy, education, and stewardship, WWTA protects and promotes public access to Washington's waterways, shorelines, and marine trails for human-powered watercraft.

With our efforts, we want to inspire current and future generations to enjoy and take a greater role in protecting our waterways, and ensuring public access.

Join and see updated trail information on our website.

Contact us:
wwta.org
(206) 545-9161
4649 Sunnyside Avenue North, #307
Seattle, WA 98103

*Not for navigation; conditions can be hazardous.

